SUMMARY

Maritime Security 2013 Caribbean workshop and exhibition will bring together public and private stakeholders from all backgrounds to discuss, learn and collaborate on strategies and technologies in mitigating security threats posed to the maritime domain.

Workshop sessions are designed to give all participants knowledge on how to better secure their maritime areas of responsibility, mainly by highlighting available resources and best practices. Each topic will be comprehensively addressed with critical perspectives of those who have implemented successful strategies and technologies in their maritime security operations. In addition to the best practices and resources, the program will also showcase future technologies and programs that can enhance and/or offer new approaches to enhance maritime security.

Maritime Security 2013 Caribbean will also host an exhibition of 15 companies that have highly relevant solutions and past performances in securing the maritime domain. Exhibitors will display relevant solutions to conference participants, ensuring high return on investment for them and conference participants.
